RAILROAD EXACTIONS, AND THE RIGHTS OF PASSENGERS.

The Salt Lake Tribune takes us to task for certain strictures passed upon the decision of Judge McKean, in the celebrated case of Page vs. Central Pacific Railroad Company. Several misstatements are charged to our account, and the Tribune seeks to correct them. We see no practical consequence in any of the alleged misstatements. It matters not, so far as the law and justice of the case are concerned, whether Page was thrown down an embankment or not, or whether his leg was actually broken or was only strained. It is not denied by the Tribune or by those in whose behalf it has become the champion, that Page was ejected from the cars after paying his fare from Omaha to San Francisco, merely because he was not willing to submit to the extortion of paying another fare from Ogden to San Francisco. The whole question is, whether a passenger may be allowed to lay over a reasonable length of time and resume his seat. The objects of all law are to secure substantial justice to all, and exclusive privileges to none. The stipulation upon the tickets that they are good for that trip only, is no more a contract than the advertised schedule of time by which the Company agrees to take passengers from one point to another. If, as is often the case, the Company fails to land passengers at a given point in a certain time, it should not be held responsible where it is shown that the detention was caused by circumstances over which the Company had no control—such as an accident, against which the Company is not to be expected to provide; or a snow blockade, which subjects passengers to vexations and ruinous delays, and for which the Company is not held responsible, although it announces to the public that it will do a certain thing in a specified time. Now if the Company is held blameless for that which causes great injury to passengers, why should not a passenger be allowed to consult his own convenience when the Company suffers no loss whatever in consequence, unless the fact that it is debarred from making and enforcing unreasonable demands be taken as an act of injustice? Judge McKean has little of precedent to sustain his decision. Indeed, the authorities are against him. Yet, to set the matter at rest, Congress should interfere and pass an act permitting passengers to lay over at their convenience for ten days, anywhere between Omaha and San Francisco; and in case of sickness, as long as the circumstances of the case might demand. This would secure substantial justice to both the Company and the passengers.

It is a popular fallacy that promissory notes written or signed in pencil will not stand good in law, and a case has just been dismissed in one of the New York Courts grounded in that belief, the decision given being that a note in pencil is legally as binding as one in ink. Storey on promissory notes declares that "a promissory note must either be in ink or pencil; that is to say, the signature of the promisor must be so; the body of the note may be printed."

There is no Government in the world which makes more revenue from licensed gambling than that of China. The great lottery known as the Wai sing, probably the largest speculation of the kind in the world, is a Government institution. At present, the fees for its protection in Canton amount to some $70,000 or $80,000 per annum, and, among the better classes of Chinese, its practice is almost universal.

NEXT MONDAY is the time for the meeting of Congress. The organization is complete, and no delay will occur to prevent immediate attention to the business before it. The session will expire by limitation on the 3d of March. The Senate will be convened in extra session on the 4th of March, to act upon any nominations the President may make, but the new House will not probably be convened.

The United States Government has recently invited proposals at St. Louis for the construction of an iron snag-boat, to be employed in removing snags from the channels of the Mississippi and branches. In time, the hulls of all the passenger boats plying on the lower Mississippi will be of iron. St. Louis, if her capitalists are sufficiently public-spirited, may become the Clyde of America.

Dispatches from the end of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad, on the western line of Kansas, say that buffaloes are so thick that trains cannot be run with safety.

This proposition to call a Convention to form a State Constitution for Washington Territory, was voted down at the recent election.

POCHE.—On Tuesday morning quite a crowd of people were on the streets at an early hour, and upon inquiring of a friend of ours, who is addicted to early rising, the cause, he replied, "Poches," from which answer we inferred that some of our citizens were going to that place. About 35 men left on three different wagons, all muffled up in winter apparel, and from the pockets of some of their overcoats the head of a bottle might be seen peeping out, which latter circumstance, coupled with the extreme coldness of the weather, led us to believe there was "mountain dew" aboard. We were surprised to see men leaving who had good steady employment, and were earning good wages in the mines. Poches is overdone now with men, more men walking the streets than are employed in the mines, and we trust our citizens will ponder well on what they are doing before they leave for there.—[Schell Creek Prospect, 23d.]

Our neighbor of the Prospect is not altogether correct, though we have the charity to say that his error is quite excusable. It was of course not to the liking of those who are located in a town to see its bone and sinew (the laboring men) departing from it. Yet such is in the regular order of things. Men will seek those localities which promise the best remuneration for their labor. Poches is not overdone, nor is it true that more men are walking the streets than are employed in the mines. This statement is altogether wrong; comparatively few are out of employment. With the extensive mining enterprises now being prosecuted, the building of the Poches and Bullionville Railroad, and from thirty to forty houses in course of construction, besides the many improvements going on and new buildings about being commenced, the field is certainly not a bad one for mechanics and laborers. We question if there is a more wide-awake and busy town on the Pacific coast than Poches; or one where labor commands better wages. We see no men who are able and willing to work who are out of employment. The business men of this place, who know the nature of the mining lookout, do not hesitate to invest their capital in permanent improvements, and those of smaller means take courage in consequence. Poches is now the leading town of Eastern Nevada, and in five years' time will be the largest in the State.

NEVADA GIFT CONCERT.—The Carson Register of this morning says: "Mr. Blanchard, the agent for the Nevada Gift Concert, informs us that the drawing for the prizes to be distributed among ticket-holders will take place in Virginia at an early day. The tickets are being disposed of rapidly. Here in Gold Hill and Virginia also the tickets find ready sale, and everybody is confident of winning at least one sweet snail of Fortune. Those, however, who do not hold tickets stand no show of even a pleasant grin from the 'fickle goddess.'—[Gold Hill News.]

H. R. Breakley is the agent for the sale of tickets in Lincoln county, and will be happy to accommodate any one who desires to take a chance in this lottery. A list of prizes, etc., will be found in our advertising columns.

STATE FINANCES.—The following is an official account of the money and vouchers for money in the State Treasury of Nevada, on the 19th of November, 1872:

Coin in the Treasury.....$32,435.95
Coin vouchers.....118,069.61
Total coin and coin vouchers $150,505.56

Currency in the Treasury.....$17,636.30

Special deposits—currency.....$141,659.44

Bonds belonging to the State
School Fund.....$91,000.00
The School Fund, we are glad to notice, amounts to $91,000, a respectable sum for our small population.—[Virg. Chronicle.]

THE CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.—On our first page will be found the address of the Centennial Commission to the people of the United States. The patriotic design of this Commission is fully set forth in the address mentioned. The expenses of the celebration will be met by stock subscriptions, and as a State organization is now in existence in Nevada, we think it would be proper for each county to effect an organization in accordance with the suggestion made in the address.

The Reno Journal says the borax mine situated east of Wadsworth, and owned by Andy Russell, Joe Moran and others, has been sold to an English company for the snug little sum of $30,000. Frank Farrington, we believe, negotiated the sale. One year ago $1,000 would have purchased it.

It is mentioned by Washington correspondents of New York papers, that the forthcoming message of President Grant will recommend Congress to proclaim a general amnesty to the people of the South, and restore all to citizenship.

Woodruff and Ennor's stages now leave Hamilton for the railroad at 10 a. m., instead of 12 o'clock as formerly. The travelling public will do well to make a note of the change and govern themselves accordingly.

ONLY TWO STATES.—Connecticut and New Hampshire have yet to elect members of the lower House of Congress. With the accessions which the Republicans expect from those States, they will have about 100 majority.

Spirits are becoming fashionable in Virginia City. The Chronicle gives an account of two or more of them visiting a well known physician and examining his dissecting rooms.

DIAMOND DISCOVERIES.—The finding of diamonds and other precious stones upon the western slope of the Rocky Mountains seems to have been placed beyond doubt, and if we are to believe the half that is told, we are to have a diamond fever rivaling that of the discovery of gold in 1848, and the finding of silver in 1859. Fremont speaks of a jewel found in the Black Hills, which was found to be of great intrinsic value. A gentleman with whom we conversed yesterday bears testimony to the finding of a ruby by a companion while crossing the Plains in 1849, of the value of $2,500. Ex-Governor Gilpin bears testimony to the fact of the discovery of diamonds, rubies, emeralds and sapphires through a large extent of country extending through Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and New Mexico. Precious stones have been found in Arizona and in the State of Chihuahua in Mexico. A member of the house of Poches & Co. has a valuable stone found in the sluice box of the Blue Grass mine in Butte county. Mr. Treadwell certifies to the finding of genuine diamonds a few miles beyond Oroville in the county of Butte. Testimony also comes to us that in the county of Owyhee in Idaho, diamonds were found in 1868. The last and doubtless the best authenticated and most important discoveries are located in Summit county, Wyoming Territory, about two hundred miles east of Salt Lake City and seventy miles south of Green River Station, on the Union Pacific Railroad. Messrs. Janin and Boyd, mining engineers of reputation, visited these places some months since and returned with their own hands, showing the gems as evidence of the fact of their assertions. A new party, among whom are Messrs. D. D. Colton, Clarence King, General Bond, Mr. Fry and others, are now at or on their way to the new diamond fields, and it is understood that upon their return they will give to the public a full and detailed account of their observations. If half these accounts prove true, San Francisco will become the diamond market of the world, and the cutting of precious stones will be transferred from Amsterdam, Paris and London to our city.—[S. F. Chronicle.]

TREATMENT OF IMMIGRANTS ON THE UNION PACIFIC.—The San Francisco Bulletin says:

A worthy and intelligent gentleman named Ryan, recently arrived from Illinois by an immigrant train on the railroad, in company with a number of friends, states that the treatment was very fair as far as Omaha, and to Ogden the emigrant passengers had a disagreeable time, by reason of subject to many hardships, and they lay all the blame on the Union Pacific. At Omaha they were shifted from one car to another three times before they started. The cars were also so crowded that in many cases three passengers had to occupy an ordinary seat. The water tanks were sometimes allowed to remain half a day empty. When arriving at stopping places where passengers could obtain provisions or meals, no announcement was made by the conductor of the time the train would stop, and many were afraid to leave the cars for fear of being left, and sometimes suffered inconvenience for want of food. The trains also stopped so that the passenger cars were at a considerable distance from the eating-houses, and started without due warning to passengers who had gone in search of provisions. Remonstrances with the conductors were useless. Several were said to be left behind in this manner, and one person who had been left by a previous train was picked up and brought along. From Ogden westward everything connected with the comfort of the passengers was better managed. The cars were better and more convenient, and at every stopping place due announcement of the time of stoppage was made, so that ample opportunity was afforded to obtain food. Treatment of the kind complained of on the Union Pacific Railroad is calculated to injure the State very severely.

AN INJUSTICE TO THE PEOPLE.—John Garber (Democrat) was elected Supreme Judge of Nevada two years since. A few days after the last election Garber resigned his position as Supreme Judge to counsel for the Raymond & Ely Company. Governor Bradley now appoints his private Secretary, C. H. Bellman, aged 29 years, to fill the vacancy. Had Judge Garber resigned in time the people might have elected his successor, instead of leaving it to the sagacity of so inexperienced a gentleman as Governor Bradley. Garber having been elected by the people for a term of years, and accepted the trust, should not have resigned. It was a contract entered into between Garber and the people and he should have remained true to the trust. However, he only followed the example of S. W. Sanderson, who being elected one of the Judges of the California Supreme Court, resigned to become the special attorney of the Central Pacific Railroad. Conventions hereafter should exact specific pledges from candidates for judicial position that they won't sell out—for a higher salary.—[S. F. Chronicle.]

The Chronicle is certainly straining a point to find fault with Judge Garber's course. We have no means of knowing—nor has the Chronicle—that Judge Garber contemplated resigning a sufficient time before the election to enable parties to place candidates in the field and the people to elect a Supreme Judge in the usual way. Certainly a Judge violates no trust by resigning his position, unless previous to his election he obligates himself not to avail himself of the privilege of resigning. The Chronicle is continually harping about the tenacity with which some men cling to office, and now because a gentleman resigns his office the same paper grows about it.

Henry L. Dawes, of Massachusetts, will be the father of the next House of Representatives, having been elected for the ninth time from the Berkshire district.

William P. Ross has been elected Chief of the Cherokee nation of Indians, in place of Lewis Golding, deceased.

Hon. JOHN P. JONES has gone to San Francisco on business.

RACING.—The State Journal announces, for the benefit of the sporting fraternity, that there will be two days racing over the Reno race course, commencing on December 5th. The race for the first day will be half-mile heats, three in five, for a purse of $150; entrance fee, $50. For this race, Idaho, Kent, Reno, Dick Turpin and Stranger are entered. The race for the second day will be a single dash of a quarter of a mile for $50, free for all; entrance fee, $25.

DIRD.—Charles Hall, says the Gold Hill News of the 23d, one of the old residents of Virginia, died last evening at his residence in that city, after an illness of several weeks. He was formerly a constable, attached to Justice Hill's court, and has been quite prominent in various capacities. His last words to an attendant friend were, "Steve, open the skylight, I'm going home." Deceased was a native of New York, aged about 45 years.

The Silver State classifies the hold-over Senators as five Democrats, five Republicans and two Independents. It thinks all the hold-over Republicans are opposed to Jones.

The Nevada State Journal (Reno) commenced its third volume on the 23d. It is a live paper, and merits continued success.

SENATOR STALWART passed through Reno on Thursday, on his way to Washington.

Chief Justice Lewis and family are on a visit to California.
